LAKE PILLSBURY REST CAMP

SITE NAME: Lake Pillsbury, California-Rest Camp, and Lake County California-Lake Pillsbury Rest Camp, CA.

LOCATION: Lake Pillsbury Rest Camp was located in Lake County, 30 miles north of Lakeport, California. (Figures 1 and 2).

SITE HISTORY: On 26 September 1947, the U.S. Government acquired 25 permit acres from the Department of the Agriculture, Forest Service for use as a rest and recreation camp by Hamilton Field Army Air Force personnel and their families. On 06 May 1949, the 25 permit acres were retransferred to the Department of Agriculture, Forest Service. In 1962, the Forest Service developed the site into a public campground. The site is currently known as Sunset Campground.

SITE VISIT: A site visit was conducted on 25 June 1991 by Scott Kranhold and Randi Beuttler of Radian Corporation. The site is located along the northeastern shore of Lake Pillsbury. The site was developed into a public campground (Sunset Campground) in 1962 by the Forest Service. There is no evidence of any buildings or structures that may have been used as part of a military rest camp. The surrounding area is forest service land. A site location map is shown in Figure 3.
